*n*FOCUS Homes of Distinction Party

Talk about a rock star. Rogan Allen has got it going on, and every soul that stepped into the stunning home he built on Trimble Road (featured in last month's issue as an Nfocus Home of Distinction) stopped in their tracks. The breathtaking views, the stunning simplicity of the design (courtesy of architect extraordinaire Sharon Pigott) and the environmentally smart elements made it easy to understand why this house was selected as the site for the Homes of Distinction party.

And how better to outfit a distinctive home than with this crowd of folks? Just in Time's Lamar Durr and crew—dressed dapperly, as always—serving up divine Saint Germain Champagne cocktails; the fine gentlemen of PMC handling the luxury cars of guests with the savvy of Indy drivers (just as talented, but thankfully, not quite as speedy!); and, the gourmet talents behind the oh-so-edible creations of Chef's Market. Lordec—those meatball sliders, sinful rock shrimp risotto and antipasto tray were enough to make a girl forget her diet!

As if the conversation, food, drink and views weren't enough, guests were treated to the soulful sounds of Jack Silverman and Greg Bryant. And when it came time to toe tap to the tunes, one look down showed that the floors were anything but ordinary. Top designer Jamie Beckwith showcased her amazing, new jigsaw puzzle floors. Way cool.

If we click our heels three times, can we call this home? Please?
